LOTUS LINEUP UNVEILED

Over 30 artists take the stage September 15-18 in Bloomington, Indiana, for the 23rd annual Lotus World Music & Arts Festival.

Bloomington, Indiana. Over 30 international artists come together September 15 – 18 in Bloomington, Indiana, for the 23rd annual Lotus World Music & Arts Festival. The four-day festival packs eight downtown venues with internationally recognized artists representing over 20 countries, including Zimbabwe, Israel, Ghana, Sudan, Argentina, Ethiopia, Finland, Hungary, and Mongolia. The music is as diverse as the countries represented by the artists, with notes of anything from Finnish folk music, timple, classical Indian sarod, reggae, American roots, Irish traditional, east African Afro-pop, Yemenite folk-electronica, Swedish hip hop, and more. Festival passes and one-day tickets will be available beginning August 1.

As the flagship program of The Lotus Education & Arts Foundation, Lotus World Music & Arts Festival is one of the oldest world music festivals in the U.S. and the only one of its kind in Indiana. Established in 1994, Lotus World Music & Arts Festival attracts more than 12,000 people to downtown Bloomington each fall for 4-5 days of music and arts from around the globe. Through the Festival, Lotus creates – on a grand scale – the rare opportunity for audiences to experience places far removed from their everyday routines and to broaden their worldview through the arts. In doing so, Lotus World Music & Arts Festival contributes to The Lotus Education & Arts Foundation mission: to create opportunities to experience, celebrate, and explore the diversity of the world’s cultures, through music and the arts.

Lotus in the Park

Free to the public, Lotus in the Park engages all ages through hands-on artwork, performances, workshops, and displays. This year, Lotus in the Park highlights two unique projects: “One Million Stars to End Violence” and “Indiana Folk Art: 200 Years of Tradition and Innovation.”

In 2012, artist and weaver Maryann Talia Pau started “One Million Stars to End Violence” as an international effort to end violence through bringing communities together. As a “Star-Weave” partner, Lotus’s participation in the One Million Stars project makes Bloomington one of only three stateside communities in which Pau will lead workshops.

This year, Lotus in the Park celebrates Indiana's statewide Bicentennial Celebration. In addition to Indiana-focused performances and workshops, Park activities will also feature the works of four Indiana instrument makers and the traveling exhibit "Indiana Folk Art: 200 Years of Tradition and Innovation," sponsored by Traditional Arts Indiana. This 24-panel traveling exhibit includes the work of more than 45 Indiana artists. This activity is a signature project of the Indiana Bicentennial Commission, and is made possible, in part, with support from the Indiana Arts Commission.

About Lotus Education & Arts Foundation

Established in 1994, the Lotus Education & Arts Foundation is a not-for-profit 501(c)3 organization based in Bloomington, Indiana, with a mission to create opportunities to experience, celebrate, and explore the diversity of the world's cultures, through music and the arts.

All Lotus programming supports the institutional mission: the annual Lotus World Music & Arts Festival, Lotus Blossoms Educational Outreach, Edible Lotus, and a vibrant Visual Arts program. Lotus also offers special programming and events with community partners throughout the year.

Lotus is supported by a diverse funding base: individual contributors, business sponsors, foundation and governmental grants, and ticket revenues. The organization is named partly in honor of Indiana musician Quinten Lotus Dickey (1911-1989). His spirit of open inquiry into the music of cultures other than his own—and his gifts as a musician, singer, and songwriter — inspired the founders.
